Why we are here

One month ago (Saturday, October 8) a massive quake killed tens of thousands in Kashmir. Today, as the snows start to fall, our neglect is killing many more.

Today, Tuesday, November 8, on the monthly anniversary of the quake, people in cities around the world are standing in silent vigil to remind our fellow citizens that unlike the quake, the impending tragedy that is about to unfold, can be stopped.

Remember, THEY STILL NEED US; We must never abandon them

Don't forget the 3 million homeless victims of the Earthquake

Don't forget the 74,000 injured people

Don't forget the 8,000 destroyed schools

Don't forget the 79,000 deaths

Don't forget that more people will die from the cold than from the earthquake

As the media's attention drifts away from South Asia, remember that a 100,000 survivors are at risk of dying in the coming weeks and more will follow if help is not given to them.

To mark the one month anniversary of the South Asian Earthquake We are holding this CANDLE LIGHT VIGIL to grieve for lives lost, provide hope to those still struggling to survive, draw the world's attention to the work that still needs to be done.

Our individual voices can be one loud message of support, hope and action.
